

Capitalize on the mobile lifecycle with the tools you need, when you need them

Businesses know smartphones and tablets can increase their workforce productivity by offering increased communication and connectivity. But keeping up with the latest and greatest technology when it becomes available can be a struggle. AT&T is here to help.

Trade in and trade up

The AT&T Business Trade-In program helps you get the newest devices faster – and with less out-of-pocket costs. The program enables you to turn in your old wireless phones and other devices that you no longer need and receive credit for their value. The credit is applied directly to your AT&T account usually within 2 billing cycles, helping to offset future payment costs of your new devices. AT&T Business Trade-In will even accept device trade-ins from any wireless carrier.

Data security

AT&T follows a rigorous, multistep data sanitization process to remove and destroy all customer data on devices. This process is the US EPA certified R2 Standard for both recycling electronic waste and data destruction. Devices that cannot be properly sanitized are destroyed to an end-of-life state via environmentally responsible methods. SIM and external memory cards are micro-shredded to completely destroy the data.

Potential benefits:

- Offset new device costs
- Get peace-of-mind knowing AT&T has removed and destroyed all customer data left on the device.
- Highest standards of environmental protection

Features

- Discover device value online via AT&T Premier, or contact your AT&T account representative
- No fees – shipping and postage are free.

Participate in the AT&T Business Trade-In program in five easy steps.

1: Quote	2: Accept	3: Ship	4: Recycle	5: Credit
