

Capitalize on the mobile lifecycle

Businesses know smartphones and tablets increase their workforce productivity through increased communication and connectivity. But keeping up with the latest and greatest technology can be a struggle. AT&T is here to help.

Trade in and trade up

The AT&T Business Trade-In program helps you get the newest devices faster - and with less out-of-pocket costs. The program enables you to turn in your old wireless phones and other devices that you no longer need and receive credit for the value of the device. The credit is applied directly to your AT&T account (BAN - Billing Account Number) usually within 2 billing cycles, helping to offset future payment costs of your new device. And best of all, the AT&T Business Trade-In program will even accept device trade-ins regardless of the device branded wireless carrier.

Data security

AT&T follows a rigorous, multi-step data sanitization process to remove and destroy all customer data on devices. This process is the US EPA certified R2 Standard for both recycling electronic waste and data destruction. A device that holds secondary market value will be restored after a comprehensive data removal process. Devices that cannot be properly sanitized are destroyed to an end-of-life state via environmentally responsible methods. SIM and external memory cards are micro-shredded to completely destroy the data.

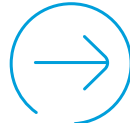

Potential Benefits

- Offset new device costs
- Get peace-of-mind knowing AT&T has removed and destroyed all customer data left on the device.
- Highest standards of environmental protection

Features

- Discover device value online via AT&T Premier.
- No fees - shipping and postage are free.
